Selectmen's Meeting

APRIL 3, 1984 - by Virginia Arral
POLICE DEPARTMENT JOINING THE COMPUTER AGE

Police Chief James Moran informed Selectmen last Tuesday that his department has been the recipient of contributions from four people in town to be used for a computer in the police station.

Chief Moran, who preferred not to disclose the sum, said the amount will cover the computer, the hardware, the software, and the paper and maintenance to operate the system.

The Chief said, "This is a credit to the Police Department and to the Town of Mattapoisett, and I'm very happy about the whole thing." He stressed that there will be no cost to the town.

Chief Moran said he has checked various models and feels the Radio Shack TRS-80, Model 4 is the best one to meet his department's needs. The Chief added that he will receive a town-department 12 percent discount on items not on sale.

Among the programs the computer will be set up to cover include court cases, cruiser maintenance, scheduling of personnel, payroll, EMT records, ambulance records and other records, Chief Moran explained.

The Board of Selectmen enthusiastically gave their approval to the Chief to proceed with the purchase of a computer system. Selectmen Chairman John N. DeCosta said, "Because of the type of department you are running and the caliber of your officers, it makes people want to help."

In other business Selectmen:

MET WITH MARC GODDU who has submitted a proposal to purchase the Grange Hall to build four two-bedroom apartments. He was accompanied by Alan Poling, his partner in the renovation project.

Goddu said he has submitted to the Town Clerk an artist's sketch of what the outside will look like. He has also hired Robert

I can assure you I do not endorse such action and personally find it hard to un-

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

It seems to me that our New England con-increasingly tending to forget that they are elected to represent the views of their poll-taking it is not difficult to obtain a clue as to what the majority want or be-position that "Big Brother" knows best, vot-the folks back home. I have noticed one real exception to this arrogant attitude, and that is in the person of Senator Gordon Humphries of New Hampshire. He seems to understand who sent him to the Senate, why they sent him to the Senate; he acts in accordance with the principles of genuine representation of the people of New Hampshire.

Both Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln had great confidence in the informed judgment of the common people, and were often guided in their decisions by this confidence. Is it not possible that many of our present-day representatives in Washington do not have this confidence, but instead lean towards Alexander Hamilton's dictum, "That the People are a Great Beast"? Do they believe that superior, trained minds (presumably their own) know best what should be done in the public interest?

It might be well if our national law-makers in general, and our Massachusetts representatives in particular, would review Webster's Collegiate Dictionary's definition of the word "representatives" as applied to government; that they also re-examine the thinking and concepts of the "Founding Fathers" at the constitutional convention

If they do this conscientiously, it is possible that they will once again be led to represent the majority thinking of the voters who sent them to Congress, and refrain from substituting their own judgements on matters of local, state and national concern.

There were not many secular humanists at the 1787 constitutional convention. Our country would be better served, and represented, if we had fewer of them, supposedly representing us in Washington today.

FRESHWATER WETLANDS TO BE EXPLORED IN WALK

On Sunday, April 15th, at 1:30 p.m. Lloyd Center Naturalist Beth Pollin will lead a group of curious participants on a journey to explore freshwater wetlands on the Lloyd Center property at 430 Potomska Road, South Dartmouth.

The warmer temperatures and longer days of Spring mean an explosion of plant and animal life. Many of the freshwater animals are too small to be easily seen at a casual glance, so we will supplement our outdoor search for organisms with some close-up looking at these interesting plants and animals with hand lenses and microscopes.

If you are curious about what's happening in the ponds and swamps you've passed by so often, join us at the Lloyd Center for Environmental Studies for the "Freshwater Wetlands" walk. The walk is free of charge and open to the public, although registration is required. Please call 990-0505 for more information and/or to register.

one else, or a real-life experience," said the Ensemble's founder and director, Nicole Dreiske. "In Belgium we performed Parables II for children, and worked with stories such as 'Jack and the Beanstalk', 'Little Red Riding Hood'. In New York, almost the entire evening consisted of parables drawn from mythology. In Illinois, we worked with a handicapped audience whose personal dreams and experiences were obviously very crucial for them.

"What makes Parables II different from all other kinds of public improvisation is that the actors reveal the material deep within the story," said Dreiske. "There is no manipulation of the story into a preconceived structure. The parable is performed for the audience spontaneously, without pre-arrangement or discussion by the actors, right before the audience's eyes."

Members of the audience may write down their improvisational ideas on forms provided before the performance. Anyone interested in submitting an idea beforehand should send it in writing to Parables II, English Department, Group I, Box 326, SMU.

"Parables II" is sponsored by the SMU Cultural Affairs Committee.

Marine Event Permits

With the new year beginning, many boating organizations are planning to schedule regattas, parades and marine events for the year. Organizations must obtain Marine Event Permits from the Coast Guard for any event if circumstances or locations will cause an extra or unusual hazard to people using the navigable waters of the United States.

A permit is also required if the event,
or the spectator fleet, will obstruct a navigable channel.

With a properly approved Marine Event Permit, patrol vessels may be provided by the Coast Guard or the Coast Guard Auxiliary to ensure adequate protection of the area and spectators.
